who we are

The Challenge We Address

Despite improvements in doctor numbers, India faces a critical shortage of specialists, especially beyond metro cities.

- Rural and semi-urban hospitals face up to 80% shortages in specialist roles
- Hiring a specialist often takes 2-5 months, impacting patient care
- Hospitals struggle to secure the right fit, not just available candidates
- High attrition caused by poor role clarity, cultural mismatch & burnout
- Doctors face unclear contracts, role ambiguity, and limited growth pathways

The result: disrupted care delivery and dissatisfied professionals.
